THE "SOUTHERN QUEEN,"

A Weekly Newspaper for the City and the Bush, and the Chronicle of the National Church: the object of which is to express the feelings of that portion of the community which, whilst it will uphold every Constitutional privilege of a Free People to the true spirit of British liberty, has been also taught, and is disposed to render, "honour to whom honour is due;" which, where differences in opinion arise, acts a due value upon open and manly controversy, dispising, politically, a factious or an insidious opposition, scarcely less than it detests the perversion of the Public Press to the viler practices of detraction and slander; and which, having been "brought up under the hallowed shade of the Church of England," so far from casting unmerited reproaches upon our Church and her Clergy, demands, at the present crisis, a Paper competent to the fearless vindication of her Ecclesiastical Polity.

The Paper will consist of 16 pages royal quarto, and will be diversified by contributions to its Literary departments, blending amusement with sound instruction; in the preparation of which no pains will be spared to fit them for the Drawing-Room as well as for the unrestricted perusal of the Family Circle.

COLOURED DAGUERREOTYPES!!!
49, HUNTER-STREET,
(Two doors from O'Connell-street.)

MR. G. B. GOODMAN has great pleasure in announcing to the public, that he has just received from the Patentee in England, the new process, lately discovered, of colouring the Daguerreotype Portraits, and having already executed some very beautiful likenesses in this style, he will be happy to submit them to the inspection of those who will favour him with a visit.

It may be as well for general information to observe, that these Portraits are taken almost instantaneously, and produce as faithful a representation of the face and figure as is presented by standing opposite a mirror, being in fact the reflection itself fixed permanently in the glass or polished surface, thus producing in effect a "Second self."

The pictures effected by this art are superior to the finest engravings for delicacy of shadowing and correctness of delineation, and have hitherto only wanted colour to make them perfect, which grand desideratum has been attempt achieved, and Mr. G. B. Goodman hesitates to apprise the public of this most important addition.

On account of the depression at the times, the price will still be limited to one guinea for the coloured likenesses, including a handsome gilt and morocco case.

Specimens to be seen at Mr. Isaac Levey's, Draper, George-street, and Mr. Aldis's, Tobacconist, the Bank of Australia; and at the Photographic Gallery, 49, Hunter-street, Sydney, November 25. 7216

Norton, Esq., Dr. Wardell's Estate, and other equally influential proprietors.

The lots are the most convertible possible for building purposes, and those on the main street (especially the corner ones) are such, every man who is any thing of a landlord, and seeks good tenants, must allow are not to be likened any where for the erection of HOUSES OF REFRESHMENT, BUTCHERS and BAKERS, GROCERS, CHEMISTS and DRUGGISTS, and in fact any trade or business whatever. In the employment of capital to advantage no one need doubt the propriety or prudence of buying even a whole section, which will come to a reasonable amount in comparison with former times.

Terms.—25 per cent. cash deposit; remainder at 6, 9, and 12 months, without interest.

* Plans will be put up at Mr. Abraham Hearne, at the Cheshire Cheese, the Cherry Gardens, and at Mr. J. Ireland's, a week previous to day of sale.

As per plan, to be seen at the Mart.

These premises are now in the possession of Messrs. Logan and Doyle, as tenants thereof, subject only to a quit-rent of 8s. 6d. per annum.

☞ As a standard investment of capital, this freehold bit of ground is second to none in value to any capitalist or monyed person, "who makes more than 5 per cent. for his money;" and as the mortgagee has been after legally paying more than that amount of interest, it behoves trustees, and others invested with trust powers, to look about, and exercise their judgment in buying such freehold ground as will return (like this) thirty to fifty per cent. in weekly rents.

There is not a second bit that does not know the value and importance of—

1.—Clarence-street, as central for general business.
2.—Being close to the Commercial and other wharfs; and
3.—In the middle of one of the most populous wards in the whole city.
4.—What more need be wished, for a good ready-money shop, than one of these lots or what next can be put in competition with it? The thing is not to be done.

All her provisions were destroyed, she was liberally re-supplied by the English Ambassador; but the time lost made a serious difference in her gains for the fishe season. The English Government, upon a petition from the owner of the Roland, supported by the French Minister of Foreign Affairs, has remitted to the owner, by way of indemnity, a sum of £1500, and a further sum of £400 to be distributed among the crew of the whaler.—Journal du Havre.

Sworn to no master, of no sect am I."

MISCHIEVOUS OPPOSITION.

SILENCE have the inventency and the blind recklessness of party spirit been carried to greater lengths than they have been carried by our Legislative Council, in dealing with the Estimates for the expenses of witnesses, and for the department of the REGISTRAR-GENERAL. The first of these Estimates has been finally disposed of—that is, kicked out sans cérémonie; the other, at the moment at which we write, is threatened with the like fate. To neither of them, however, have the Council objected on the score of its being superfluous or extravagant. They have not attempted to dispute that the payment witnesses' expenses is indispensable to the efficient administration of justice nor have they questioned the eminenta tility of the registration of deeds. In the same of common sense, then, under what conceivable pretext can they have refused to make provision for these services? On the ground, professedly, that the GOVERNOR can provide for them out of other resources. But the Executive has always distinctly declared that he possesses no such resources, and there being not the shadow of reason for doubting His EXCELLENCY's veracity, we can come to no other conclusion than that the refusal has been plotted and persisted in for party purposes.

We have hitherto frequently deemed it our duty to find fault with the measures of administration; but finding fault on public grounds, and for reasons shown, is one thing; opposition for opposition's sake, and to measures not only faultless, but confessedly essential to the welfare of the community, is another and a widely different thing. Here are two such measures—and here are two successive instances of such "rabid," pestiferous opposition. It protestantism has already notified that Crown witnesses are no longer to be paid for their attendance on the Courts, nor even reimbursed their travelling expenses; and we may rest assured, that should the vote asked for the department of Registrar-General be finally refused, the department will be broken up, and an end be put to the registration of deeds! Whether this vote be refused or not, however, (for, as before intimated, at the moment we write the point is not decided), the conduct of the opposition members will be neither more nor less deserving of reprehension. So far as their intentions go, the mischief may be considered as done. The honorable and learned member for Sydney has cut a "tall" one best on doing all that in them is to withhold the needful supplies, and to brave the most disastrous of the possible consequences. They have done—one bad act, and are impatient to do another. They have gone far, indeed, upon the country the grievous, the intolerable injury of throwing unnecessary impediments in the way of criminal justice; and are straining every nerve to inflict the further injury of unsettling titles to real estate!

It is very easy for these infuriated gentlemen to pretend to shift the responsibility from their own shoulders to those of the Executive. But it is equally easy for the public to see where the responsibility will really lie. To talk of the opposition, in the two instances before us, being founded exclusively on public principle, is to talk palpable nonsense. It was intended to reduce the Government to a humiliating dilemma; and, in part at least, the end has been gained; but the misery of it is, that in teasing the Government, the teasers have wronged and damaged the community. Granting, for argument's sake, that the Government had given cause for provocation—had richly deserved strong marks of the Council's displeasure; was this the proper course to take? Was it right to punish the innocent with the guilty? to injure the whole colony for the sake of expressing their dissatisfaction with the Executive? Ought they not first to have tried all other means? Could they not have passed a vote of censure, or have addressed the Crown praying for the Governor's recal? And when these had failed—when HER MAJESTY's Government had sternly denied redress, and laughed at their complaints—would it not then have been quite time enough to fly to the dernier ressort of withholding the supplies? In whatever way the honorable members themselves may answer these questions, there will be but one way of answering them by the judicious of their constituents. And when the consequences begin to work, and come actually home to men's bosoms, the answers will be couched in no measured terms. When the ends of justice come to be defeated—when criminals break down for want of evidence, material witnesses having refused to travel at their own expense, and when, from this known impunity, crime grows more and more audacious, and robbery and murder slide through the land without remorse or fear; then will the perversity of these honorable members be assailed with the loud and indignant outcry of an insulted people. And if to these grievances be added, (and no thanks to the Council, WENTWORTH and his followers if they be not added—that further depreciation of landed property which must result from the impossibility of registering mortgages and conveyances, the indignation of the public will reach a climax that may be better imagined than described.

PORT PHILLIP.

CONSIDERABLE differences of opinion appears to exist at Port Phillip, respecting the proposed introduction of the prisoners from the Pentonville Penitentiary, under the name of exiles, a meeting, said to have been composed principally of squatters, having been held, at which it was determined to petition that persons of that description should be sent to Port Phillip, while a numerously signed requisition had been addressed to the Mayor to call a meeting to adopt a petition with a proper the other way. When we have the whole of the proceedings before us we shall revert to this subject, which will have to be discussed as to its bearing on this part of the colony as well as the southern districts.

LEGISLATIVE COUNCIL.

SATURDAY.

THE SPEAKER took the chair at half-past twelve.

ASSENT TO ACTS.

THE SPEAKER reported that the Royal assent had been given by His Excellency the Governor to the following Acts, namely—the Sydney Incorporation Amendment Act, the Melbourne Incorporation Amendment Act, the Distillation Law Amendment Act, the Insolvent Law Amendment Act, the Appropriation Act, and the Acts for suspending the operation of the 70th clause in the Sydney and Melbourne Incorporation Acts.

CONVICTS AT MELBOURNE.

Mr. ROBINSON presented a petition from the Mayor and Town Council of Melbourne, expressing in strong terms the alarm and dissatisfaction which they felt at the arrival, by the Royal George, of a number of convicts from the English penitentiries, and praying that the Legislative would throw its shield around and interdict the importation of a class of persons whose presence would act as a royal pestilence in the land. In moving that the petition be read, Mr. Robinson remarked that the Town Council was more strongly opposed to the introduction of this class of persons, although some of the settlers at Port Phillip were of a different opinion.

The petition was then read and received.

MELBOURNE BAKERS.

Mr. ROBINSON presented a petition from the Bakers of Melbourne, praying that the Council would pass a law to prevent baking on Sundays.

EARLY CLOSING OF GROCERS' SHOPS.

To the Editors of the Sydney Morning Herald.

GENTLEMEN,—I was agreeably surprised on Saturday, on perceiving the majority of the Grocers coming forward, in order to aid the object of closing their shops at an early hour. An object which it is well known will add much to the good fellowship of society, which I regret to say has long since been in the back ground; it has not they are disposed to discharge the incumbent duty they owe bound to uphold in meeting hand in hand until this object is carried into effect, which at present is grossly violated. It is also the opinion of many others who witnessed the good feeling, that it will lend very much to the health of the young man employed now more like slaves than persons who should be respected; therefore I hope all those employers will come forward boldly, and unanimously agree to the above proposition.

MR. GEO. A. LLOYD, in again introducing himself to the notice of the public, from whom he has experienced such extensive patronage, begs to state that he has resumed his business as Auctioneer and General Commission Agent, and trusts, by attention to the interests committed to his care, and punctuality in rendering Accounts Sales, to secure a portion of the support he formerly received.

G. A. L.'s terms will be the same as other Auctioneers'; and from the intimate knowledge he possesses of the business, obtained during three years' close application to it, he feels convinced that any sales entrusted to him will be effected to the satisfaction of his employers.

AUSTRALIAN FLEECE.

CHARLES NEWTON hastens to announce to the Colonists generally, the arrival of upwards of 130 bales and cases of New Goods suitable for the present season, which have been personally selected by his agent in England, which for cheapness and excellence of quality, he ventures to assert, will prove to be excelled by, if equalled, in the city of Sydney.

C. N. forbears making the absurd assertions that he can sell lower than his neighbours, or that he will undersell any trafic at all; but at the same time wishes earnestly to impress on the general public, that his goods will bear inspection, and that he will sell articles for what they really are, and not give goods fictitious names calculated to deceive, but expose the different fabrics in his commodious and airy ware-room, where parties really can see what they are buying.

To the Growers of the Fleece C. N. requests their special notice to the following 100 pieces of double warped Sheeting, 29 inch wide, at 7½d. per yard.

SPITALFIELDS.

Independent of the sentence of other parties about the cheapness and extent of their stock, Charles Newton feels that (without objecting himself to the appellation of a boast) he is warranted in asserting that the collection, extent, and quality, of this branch of the trade as now is not to be equalled in variety or cheapness by any house in Sydney; but as the above facts admitted by all parties, he deems further comment superfluous.

MR. GEORGE A. LLOYD takes the earliest moment in making known to the several capitalists of the metropolis, that he fearlessly challenges the whole colony, and with every respect to the value of other properties, asserts, that there is not one amongst the whole that can be brought to any thing like a scale of comparison with this estate, now in full operation, upon the best and cleanest vein of coal that the miner could wish to work upon.

It will be brought to Public competition under instructions given by the Trustee, under deed of assignment of L. E. Threlkeld, to John Campbell, Esq., of the Wharf; T. W. Boyce, Esq., of the Sydney Bank; and R. Bourne, Esq., of Pitt-street.

THE COAL MINE.	THE COAL MINE consists 2 SQUARE MILES, the Seam of which, on being worked, is of best thick—Wearmouth and Newcastle coal.
Yield.	A calculation has been made by one of the most eminent engineers, and which perfectly tallies with M'Culloch, that allowing one-third for dykes and casualties, 3,250,000 tons of coal should be yielded, and which, only at 16d. per ton turns out £54,416; and this is obtained—in a healthy subterranean manner at half the cost of labour employed elsewhere; and by men always ready and willing at the wages—and may explain partly, why this mine is so EASILY AND WELL WORKED, added to which a shaft has been sunk, and the foot of "ARCHIBALD SEAM," below, is ascertained beyond doubt, but the extent not carried out, yet.
THE MINE AT WORK.	The mine is now in full operation and any quantity of Coal to "any amount" can be supplied weekly—the Miner' Huts, Stores, Wharf Railway, &c., &c., on the spot—ARE COMPLETE.

LOT 13.

19 acres 3 roods of the same character, and possesses equal advantages with the farm just described as lot 12.

LOT 14.

COLLINGWOOD HOUSE AND FARM,

The Farm consists of 40 acres of the very choicest of the land, having an extensive frontage to and the whole is in a high state of cultivation.

THE RIVER AND THE HIGH ROAD,

The HOUSE contains seven rooms, with verandah back and front, and has in the rear detached kitchen and other out-offices, laundry, excellent bakehouses with two complete ovens, stable, coach house, store house, slaughter house, stock yards, &c.

An ornamental Flower Garden and Shrubbery add to the beauty of the place, which, with excellent kitchen garden with a well-stocked and superior orchard provide every description of vegetable and fruit. The whole is complete as

A GENTLEMAN'S RESIDENCE.

And also admirably adapted for the additional purposes of a

GOVERNMENT CONTRACTOR,

Every convenience being on the premises for a business of that nature.

LOT 15.

15 acres 1 rood, in a high state of cultivation, with the river as its eastern boundary and the southern road on the west.

LOT 16.

16 acres 2 roods 20 perches, exactly the same in every respect as lot 15; an excellent farm for a working man.

LOT 17.

AN ORCHARD.

6 acres 10 perches, entirely on the banks of the river, the land particularly fertile, being composed of rich vegetable deposit, and fully stocked with fruit trees of every sort, just arriving at the maturity.

This land would prove highly remunerative, if in the hands of a gardener or fruiterer.

LOT 18.

COLLINGWOOD STEAM MILL, COTTAGE AND FARM.

This truly valuable property has been completed at an immense outlay; the mill is most substantially built, and has a capable of grinding ninety bushels of wheat in twelve hours. There is very

SIX-HORSE POWER ENGINE,

EXTENSIVE DAM

with great depth of water, and every convenience that can be required. Everything is in first rate order and remit. Attached to the mill is a very prettily situated and recently built, containing four rooms, and having in the rear a detached kitchen, fitted up with a view to comfort and convenience, store-room, and two bedrooms. The whole is well fenced in, and within the enclosure is a tastefully laid out flower garden and good kitchen garden.

THE FARM

occupies 27 acres of the choicest land on the estate, all cleared, and ready for the plough. There are good huts for the men upon the farm.

 At a very trifling expense a great addition might be made to the income of this establishment, by the erection of what is much wanted in the neighbourhood, viz.—

A THRESHING MACHINE.

A property, like this, so faithfully describe', needs no embellishment at the hands of the auctioneer; although the sterling and valuable qualifications, which render the tion of it possess, would well bear out all he might say on the subject.

Its locality, situated as it is within one mile of the flourishing town of Liverpool, in the very centre of an extensive agricultural district, and on the great road leading to Campbelltown and the southern interior, must ensure the mill a never-failing trade—its easy access from Sydney (only two to three hours' quiet drive) renders it most desirable to any party wishing for a healthy and comfortable home in the country, the resources of which would at all times afford an income, and as a resting place to fatten cattle or sheep prior to their being offered in the Sydney market (for which purpose any of the lots are available), it might most certainly be very profitably employed.

A chain of ponds, never known to fail even in the driest seasons, and the George's River, afford at all times an ample and abundant supply of water. The land is all excellent, as a proof of which the present season's crop of wheat given upon it has not been surpassed by any in the colony.

For particulars and terms apply to the Auctioneer, at whose rooms a plan of the property may be seen.

NEWS FROM THE INTERIOR.

(From our Correspondent.)

GUNDAGAI,

DECEMBER 28.—Christmas! season of gladness—bright, warm, sunny Christmas! again thus shinest on us—again does thy return, long-long anticipated, dart ardent and unclouded beams of joy on those who sorrow not; whilst he who toils in darkness with pain and grief! Oh, the tedious and clouded valley of life, finds for a while this cheering influence, and casting down his weary burden of care, hastes to join the jocund throng that revel in thy light—for now, beneath thy spirit-stirring form, he feels that "man is vanity"—that "all his wealth, riches, and honest toil who shall gather them?" and turning from the blasted volume of life, he finds the bright unsullied page thou turnest to his view!

Here, in my native land, we are told Christmas does not but as a mere name, but exists—that there are "no associations" in this "sunny land" to render it dear or joyous—that there is no enjoyment. It may be, that some—second the evil cause this feeling,—but here in New South Wales, Christmas is Christmas still; and the children of the "good old English gentleman" hail its return with as much heartfelt joyousness as ever did their fathers in their sires of the aforesaid "old country." Nature lay claim to the pleasant accompaniments of trilling, pitiless storms, of snow-covered ways, of drizzling sleet and rain, of roaring wind and tempest, of a cheerless rugged nature, who raises her charms in a mantle of ice less she should smile as the surrounding objects, and who, because she cannot herself be bright and joyful, vents her spleen on the poor tattered beggar and starving wretch, who covers hopelessly the snow-clad hedge to screen herself and child from perishing, even behind nature's nakedness, find help in! No Christmas in Australia? Yes, who cannot be happy at Christmas, cross where it may, provided he has the requisites, in a "Gabriel Grub" in verity. In truth our skies are fine at that period of the year; but who would not prefer sunshine to ice and shade!

Most aware of sorrow I greet thee gay,
What balm, what life is in thy ray?
To feel thee is such real bliss,
That had the world no joy but this—
To sit in sunshine calm and sweet—
It were a world too exquisite
For man to bear; yet, let me share
The deep cold shadow of the tomb.

Man fares the Death associations whenever he gazes, and he who refuses the pledges of new ties and friendships, and whose heart is not susceptible to impressions, because forsooth the old one once exist no longer, is a fool, and has no "Christmas" in his soul. Our motto at this season of the year should be, "Cherish the past, and enjoy the present"

The harvest in this district is now general—price per acre from 10s. to 12s. sixpence reaping. The crops are magnificent, and I have no doubt there is a ten years' supply of grain in the country for being housed. The weather is exceedingly fine, and our skies propitious.

Last week a man named Murrah, brother of a publican at the Tumut, was killed at that place, by being brought into collision with a tree whilst going at full speed on horseback through the bush, his skull was completely fractured, and he was killed instantaneously.

Two men, servants of Mr. Hillas, of Bundaby, went last Saturday given to drinking, to the police by Mr. Andrews, of this place, for a robbery on his premises; the property was found on their persons when taken into custody. They were on their way to Sydney with their master's (Mr. Hillas's) wool.

A serious accident occurred a few days since to a poor man who has lost one leg, and who generally earns his living by grinding wheat at yet mills at so much per bushel, at the different establishments he touches at in travelling about. At Mr. M'Leay's station, Burambula, he was thrown from a bullock dray, and pitching on his wooden leg, fractured the thigh bone a few inches from the stump. Mr. Davidson was immediately sent for, and the poor fellow, with care, is likely to recover.

That most enterprising, charitable, and philanthropic lady, Mrs. Chisholm, visited our diggings last Saturday, having brought immigrants into the district. Although she did not obtain situations for the whole of them, she has been, I am told, very successful, and returns with but few, whom she anticipates protesting employment for on her way back. Her success at the worst possible period for her amiable purpose, but did she repeat the visit about the beginning of March; she would find it a difficulty in obtaining situations for many single men as shepherds, March being our weaning time.

One of the most terrific thunder storms that has been witnessed in the colony, I think, occurred last week. Its greatest fury was expended about Kuiea, the establishment of G. C. Cutlevia, Esq., which (if I may be allowed to use the expression, for I do not believe we are abroad" appears to have been the nucleus of the storm. Certain accompanied it, and the great deposit of rain at the commencement of the storm, rendered its fearful of some serious result. Great damage was done in much of the standing timber, which is very short cleavis, and the thunder—or rather crashes, for they resembled the bursting of heavy bodies more than anything else, were terrific beyond measure—the lightning cutting the car, and rendering one deaf to ordinary sound. They succeeded each other with frightful rapidity, upwards of ten peals in less than two minutes, and the atmosphere was a continuous blaze of electricity. The thunder had a crackling sound, such as is produced from the throwing off of sparks. In fallen on the cattle, dogs, and poultry, were so powerful, they appeared terrified beyond belief, and exhibited it by rushing wildly about, and uttering cries such as would be conveyed by extreme bodily pain. The storm occurred in the middle of the night, which increased the terrific effect thereof. Three trees were struck within three hundred rods of the Kaiea hut. The sheep rushed from commotion, and appeared to suffer great bodily fear.

Another burst a storm in our etherial regions! The comet, which of course every one has seen ere this, our first visitor to us on the night of Saturday last, December 21st. The "theory of comets" is so beautifully intricate and contradictory, that I am content to acknowledge a state of blissful ignorance thereon. The only thing apparent to my senses is, that they come and go—that they shine and are shone upon, and that their progress through the regions of space is—

"Farther than the starry herds,
Thrown at night by angels hands.

Or, as your friend "Yorick" poetically remarks of a meteor—

Wildly rushing to the sky.

Still none may gaze upon them without a feeling of awe and reverence for that Almighty power that formed the universe, and, in the contemplation of their beauty and splendour, with a firm belief and conviction, that "the hand which formed them still rules them and involuntarily exclaim "How wonderful are thy works, oh Lord! in all the world." The presence of comets is said to be intimately connected with important earthly changes, and as we have had two of the interesting meteorists lately, "Radicals" up here—but, entre nous, bier, I do believe myself that it forms a part of the "theory of comets,"—the "Radicals," they say, have, pretend that the appearance of luminaries has something to do either with the "Squatting Regulations," or the recall of Sir George Gipps—or his resignation, or, or—something; but I will not say all the Radicals either, because I am not a Radical, and admire Sir George Gipps vastly—at a distance.

ENGLISH NEWS

O'CONNELL OUT OF PRISON.

(From the Times.)

MR. O'CONNELL made his opening triumphal speech, in celebration of his delivery, at the meeting of the Repeal Association on Monday: and triumphant and exultant indeed it was; a quintessence and climax of the triumphal. For five columns of print does he continue his rambling over the coals every man that lifted a finger in the late trials, the Attorney-General, the jury, the Irish judges, the English judges, the Ministers, the minority in the House of Lords. Talk of the Roman triumphs! they were poor, insipid, theatrical, laxy affairs, compared with the furious rush of the politically inebriated and magnificent bacchanal of the Corn Exchange,—the ferocious onslaught he makes on Court and cabinet,—lions, tigers, and buffaloes, griffins and dragons, he lashes his courses on amongst the crowd of unhappy victims. On he goes, the God Bacchus himself and Hercules to boot, with club and lion's hide, roaring and roaring again, with ten thousand dogs and elephants, cataracts, wild cats, halloroms, and hurricanes, all yelping behind him in the wake of the single throat. Individually and collectively he drags them all and each through the mud. The judges are to be impeached, and the Ministers are to be impeached; and he—O'Connel himself—and a peace resolution of Repealers, positively will make the tour of England—hold meetings and make England to a man, and Ireland too, demand, with a voice of thunder, an impeachment. "Yes, we will say, where is injustice done, packed jury, and partial judgment, innocent men imprisoned. Englishmen, I'll test you. I'll see whether you'll join me, one and all. If not, I well come back and say to my countrymen, look no more to the protectors of John Bull, look alone to your Parliament on College-green." The judges who were the vile instruments of the Government in the prosecution are to be impeached too, and especially Mr. Justice Crampton, "who answered up his place at me as if to terrify me at his bar's aspect. I call upon the English people to join with me and Ireland, and drag him before a proper tribunal."

In the shape of individual descriptions we have

"That indescribable wretch, Lord Brougham!"

"Oh—malignant vinegar-cruet on two legs (the Attorney-General Smith)!"

"That cursed contemptuous little English dog, Sir E. Sugden!"

"That poor what's his name, the shin-of-beef 'Lord!'"

"That liar, Sir Robert Peel!"

The O'Connell indignation breaks upon the latter personage with an awful crash:—

"I come to what Sheil did in the house. He produced Sir R. Peel's declaration before his eyes, and yet he (Sir R. Peel) had the power of office, the soubriety, the intensity of falsehood to say, that he had a fair trial—that foul falsehood. If the English people do not join us in hurling Peel from office, the union is a mockery."

These are specimens. The hon. gentleman continues the strain throughout, and apostrophizes a variety of public characters as they come into his head in the same way. The short interjectional form is adopted when he is nearly out of breath, to save time, and the pure monosyllable terms are most in favour, and we have "lie," and "lie," and "lie," and "you lie," and "he lies," and "they lied," "basely," "foully," and "write that in your Prayer-book, Mr. Justice Burton," and "hurrah for impeachment, we must have an impeachment," and "sweet Sir Robert, oh, my good man (roars of laughter), you lie. (Groans.) I am a freeborn subject (cheers)—I care not for the Lord Chief Justice. (Groans and hisses.) When shall we have our Clontarf meeting? I tell you repeal is irresistible. Oh, how my heart throbs! O'Brions, Butlers, Hutchinsons, Mackies, Posters, rally round old Ireland. What a day will we have round King William in College-green—old Ireland for ever; hurrah for repeal!!!"

So much for this burst of rhetoric, which certainly beats anything Ciceronian for its vituperative batteries. Mr. O'Connell can speak very plain Saxon indeed. In spite of his antipathies to the race, he likes a few words in the language and makes more use of them than any other man in Her Majesty's dominions. The Whigs only escape. The lion turns lamb in gratitude when he comes to the Whigs.—"And now I am going so make an atonement to a class of public men whom I have often assailed—and who certainly, in some things, deserve to be assailed,—namely, the (base, bloody, and brutal) Whigs." We have inserted the prefix, because from long habit and repeated combination, Mr. O'Connell, we are sure, could no more avoid making this prefix to the mention of Whigs than he could fly; and "base, bloody, and brutal," goes as naturally with Whig, as "Papery, popery, and treason of the Peak" issued together from the tongues-end of the Puritan divine. The unconscious accents must have marred even the tender scene of the reconciliation we have now—we cannot believe but that there was an under-current of sarcasm—a stage aside—"Dearest Whigs (bounds), let me embrace you (cors); shake hands, my dear ('base, and bloody, and brutal') fellows; we will swear an eternal friendship (until I kick you next, which will not be long)." We congratulate the party on the interesting and pathetic reconciliation which we have been describing; and which, we can assure them, represents with tolerable accuracy the outline of Mr. O'Connel's affections and good will for himself and his friends.

With respect to Mr. O'Connell himself, he seems to have enough on his hands just now and in prospect—an impeachment of the Irish judges, an impeachment of Ministers—the monster-meeting at Clontarf immediately, and repeal ultimately. He stands committed to an active a career for some months to come, and his eventful and turbulent life has ever experienced. Whether or not he will manage, or try to manage, all the objects that he now proclaims, we cannot say. It is easier talking than doing, and though Mr. O'Connell is decidedly a powerful man, he will find it more difficult to do everything at once than it was to talk of everything at once. Speech commands an ubiquity and omnipotence of its own; but Mr. O'Connell will be perplexed at having to agitate Ireland and get up meetings for impeachment in England at one and the same time. Does he like to have two strings to his bow, in case the repeal cry should be an inconvenient one to continue? We suppose Mr. O'Connell goes on the principle of hooking things early, of at once proclaiming all that it may be convenient to him to pursue; and so giving himself a wide choice and option—Impeachment of Ministers—of Judges—or repeal agitation, what is to be? We shall be glad to hear his earliest decision.

LORD STANLEY.

This noble lord has accepted the Chiltern Hundreds, having been called to the Upper House by Her Majesty. This event will not, however, cause any alteration in the Cabinet, the noble lord still retaining the seals of the Colonial Office. We believe that the elevation of Lord Stanley to the House of Lords is mainly to be attributed to the desire of the Duke of Wellington to be relieved from the onerous duties of the leader in the House, in much of the singlethrust. Individually and collectively he drags them all and each through the mud. The judges are to be impeached, and the Ministers are to be impeached; and he—O'Connel himself—and a peace resolution of Repealers, positively will make the tour of England—hold meetings and make England to a man, and Ireland too, demand, with a voice of thunder, an impeachment. THE STOCKHOLDERS OF NEW SOUTH WALES.

(From the Colonial Gazette.)

On the 23rd of December last we expressed the opinion that the position of the great stockholders outside of the districts open to location in New South Wales was likely at an early period to engage the attention of the Colonial Legislature. On the 12th of March the Hon. Mr. Scott, in moving for some returns relative to New South Wales, directed the attention of the House of Commons to the condition of the stockholders. Private affairs called Mr. Scott away immediately afterwards, and the discussion he had so ably opened was not renewed during the course of the session. A new set of regulations for depasturing licenses, issued by Sir George Gipps on the 2nd of April, has caused the question to be agitated in the colony with a degree of systematic energy that will, beyond a doubt, force it on the attention of the next sessions, both of the Colonial and Imperial Legislatures.

On the 9th of April, a public meeting of stockholders—or, as they choose to call themselves, the squatters—was held at Sydney. We this day publish a full report of the proceedings. It will be seen that the gentlemen assembled constituted themselves a "Pastoral Association of New South Wales," and nominated a committee of management. Sixteen members of the Legislative Assembly (three of them Crown nominees) are members of that association. Similar arrangements had been made in different districts by circulating petitions for signatures; these appear to have been for the most part withdrawn, with a view to adopt a memorial to the Parliament, which the Committee of the Pastoral Association were directed to prepare. Public meetings have, however, been held in most of the districts, at which resolutions in accordance with those passed at the Sydney meeting have been adopted. The files of Sydney journals which we received on Thursday only extend from the 25th of April to the 3rd of May, and are, moreover, incomplete even for that brief period; yet in them we find notices of meetings:—At Scone, on the 16th of April; West Maitland, on the 23rd; at Goulburn, on the 24th; at Penrith, on the same day; at Windsor, on the 28th and 29th; and at Bathurst, on the 30th. The inhabitants of Camden were summoned to meet on the 7th of May, and intimations had been received of meetings about to be held throughout the Port Phillip district. All the meetings—in so widely distant localities—which have been attended, and by the most opulent landholders; and the resolutions appear, in almost every instance, to have passed with unanimity.

This is a movement too important to be disregarded either by the local or the Imperial Legislature. "The Council," says the Australian, will meet on the 25th instant (May.) The Pastoral Association, amongst whom are sixteen members of the House (of whom three are Crown nominees) are advancing to the charge." A copy of the petition of "the undersigned stockholders and other inhabitants of New South Wales" to the House of Commons, transmitted by last mail is lying on our table. The subject of the petition, which has been thoroughly roused, and will be attended to.

The new regulations of Sir George Gipps have been the proximate cause of this movement, and therefore cannot well be allowed to pass without criticism. But the merits of these regulations, and the policy of the Governor in issuing them, are but a part of the great question of the position of stockholders of New South Wales, and are fast merging into it. That is the real and vital question which the Legislature will next session be called upon to examine into and regulate anew.

Were there no other objection to the new regulations, they would deserve censure as ill-timed. They go so add to the burdens of the stockholders at the very moment that they are beginning to recover from a long period of severe depression. They go to add to their burdens at the very moment when the stockholders are complaining, with good cause of exhistant and unexcusted for taxation. An assessment on stock is levied on all stockholders beyond the boundaries of location, under a distinct pledge that no larger amount should be raised than was necessary for the specific purpose of maintaining a police for the protection of the holders of depasturing licenses. The sum thus raised in 1842 was £23,098, and of this only £9,341 were expended in the free tier police, leaving a surplus of £14,553 altogether unaccounted for. In the same year £15,601 were paid for depasturing licenses. This, after deducting £4910 for the expenses of management, ought to have gone to the land fund, but it remains unaccounted for. The sum total of assessment in 1843 has been estimated at £16,130, and the income from licenses that year amounted to £16,130, while the expense of management continued much the same as in 1842. The surplus assessment, and the revenue from licenses in 1843, are also unaccounted for. The Colonial Treasurer estimates the amount of assessment for 1844 at £26,000, and only £10,974 have been voted for the border police. However defensible the new regulations might be on other grounds, it was most injudicious, seeing they increase the burdens of the stockholders, to issue them at the time when that interest was just reviving from a severe and exhausting struggle, and irritated by unequal and apparently misapplied taxation. But the regulations are utterly unjustifiable on principle, as we shall have occasion to show when we return to examine them in detail. They are an arbitrary exercise of the Governor's will, rendering still more precarious the already too precarious condition of the stockholders.

The wider and more important question, the discussion of which has been precipitated by Sir George Gipps's regulations, will require patient and dispassionate inquiry before the details of its settlement can be resolved upon. On the general merits of the question we have at present nothing to add to what we said on the 23rd of December. We therefore reprint the article, and along with it extracts from two Sydney journals, to show that our views have met with approbation in the colony: a circumstance gratifying indeed, but not altogether unexpected, seeing that they were formed after frequent conversations with gentlemen recently arrived from Sydney, and thoroughly conversant with its concerns.

GRAND REVIEW IN HYDE PARK.—Thursday was a grand field day in Hyde-park; the troops of the various regiments forming the Household Brigade were reviewed by his Royal Highness the Prince of Prussia, his Royal Highness Prince Albert, his Royal Highness the Duke of Cambridge, Field-Marshal his Grace the Duke of Wellington, and a brilliant staff. In pursuance of orders from head-quarters, the following troops took up their stations upon the ground usually appropriated to reviews shortly after ten o'clock:—The 1st Regiment of Life Guards, under Col. Cavendish; the 2d Life Guards, under Colonel Reid; the 1st and 3d battalions of the Grenadier Guards, the 1st battalion of the Scots Fusilier Guards, and the 2d battalion of Coldstream Guards. General Lygon had the command of the cavalry, and Colonel Home that of the infantry. The ground was kept by a company of the 17th Lancers under Major Lawrence. It should be here stated that the review had been arranged to take place in order to afford the Prince of Prussia an opportunity of inspecting the five regiments, his Royal Highness having shortly after his arrival in England been present at a review of the Artillery Brigade at Woolwich, with which he was pleased to express himself much gratified. Prince Albert came to town from Windsor by a special train at an early hour for the express purpose of attending the review. His Royal Highness, was accompanied by Major-General Bowater and Colonel Bouverie, having attired himself in a Field Marshal's uniform, arrived on the field shortly before eleven o'clock. The Prince of Prussia, attended by a very numerous suite, had previously arrived in one of her Majesty's carriages, upon alighting from which all the nearly mounted chargers from the royal stud, which were in attendance, under the care of her Majesty's grooms, His Royal Highness wore the uniform of a Prussian Field-Marshal, and looked remarkably well. All the members of his suite were also attired in full military costume. The Duke of Wellington arrived on the field at a quarter before eleven o'clock, and was upon horseback, in which were also the Countess of Westmoreland and Lady P. Somerset. His Grace wore a Prussian uniform, and upon entering the square immediately mounted his charger and joined the body of officers at this time assembled, and consisting of Sir Murray, the Master-General of the Ordnance; Sir W. Gordon, Quartermaster General; Col. Peel, Surveyor-General of the Ordnance; and nearly all the officers of the regiments in the field. The Marquis of Worcester and Colonel Lygon were in attendance as aides-de-camp to the gallant duke. The Earl of Westmoreland and several other noblemen were also present. His Royal Highness the Duke of Cambridge arrived shortly after the Duke of Wellington, accompanied by the Hereditary Grand Duke of Mecklenburgh Strelitz; and the whole of the royal and distinguished party proceeded to inspect the troops, which were drawn up in equipage at the extreme left of the line, occupying the extreme right, the Grenadier, Fusilier, and Coldstream Guards, respectively extending in the opposite direction. As the staff approached the line, the bands of the several regiments simultaneously played the Prussian National Anthem, which was continued during the period occupied in the inspection. A variety of evolutions were then gone through, after which the infantry wheeled into line, and the cavalry, having deployed, formed a long battle train across the park, nearing the centre of which they charged at full gallop. This movement was performed with a rapidity and precision that called forth loud cheers from the assembled thousands, while it could not fail to gratify the more critical observers of the military observers present. The infantry subsequently fired by fire, and after expending about 20 rounds, the whole brigade deployed into a line, which extended completely across the park. The troops then advanced in slow time, the respective bands playing the Prussian National Anthem, and on arriving within a short distance of the staff, the whole brigade presented arms, upon which the Prince of Prussia, accompanied by his Grace the Duke of Wellington and the whole of the illustrious personages present, approached the officers of the several regiments and complimented them very highly on the efficient manner in which the proceedings of the day had been carried out. The whole of the royal personages then left the field, and proceeded on horseback to their respective destinations.—Bell's Messenger, September 7.

DEATH OF CORONEL Jonesy Blain.—We regret to announce the death of Colonel Joseph Logan, of the 63rd Regiment, with which he had served in India for the last ten years. Colonel Logan expired at Dover, on Sunday evening. He was in his 50th year. This fine old officer joined the Rifle Brigade in 1801, as First Lieutenant, and served in that corps for twenty-five years. He served his first campaign with the expedition to Hanover, in 1805. He also served in Copenhagen, and in Spain in the campaigns of 1808 and 1809, in Portugal and Spain. He was with the expedition to Walcheren in 1809, where he suffered severely from fever, contracted on that service, and whence he returned to Spain in 1811, where he served to the end of the Peninsular war, and was, with scarcely an exception, in every action. His name was particularly distinguished at Corunna, where he got his company in 1809. He had the happy fortune to command the second battalion of the Rifle Brigade for the last five years, and during the crisis at Waterloo, on the 18th of June, 1815, after all the field officers were carried off, severely wounded, he, too, was wounded in the ankle, but would not give up his command, and he was, for his gallantry at the head of the British army into Paris. For these services he got the brevet majority. On the breaking up of the army of occupation he went to Ireland with his regiment, where he was actively employed as a military magistrate in the southern counties, for which he was complimented with the freedom of the city of Cork. In 1829, he was promoted, by purchase, to the lieutenant-colonelcy of the 63rd West Suffolk Regiment, and proceeded to Ireland, in 1830, in Van Diemen's Land, where he was made senior member of the Executive Council. In 1834, he arrived at Madras with the 63rd Regiment, and was appointed Commandant of Fort St. George, and, in 1840, he was ordered to relieve the garrison of Moulmein, in command of the 63rd Regiment. In 1841, he was appointed by Lord Auckland to the command of the Tenasserim provinces, as brigadier of the first class; and soon after that he called upon to prepare for the defence against the Burmese, whose warlike preparations evinced a determination to attack our works. The garrison, when reinforced by the Governor-General, consisted of her Majesty's 50th and 63rd Regiments, the 2nd Light Cavalry, 14th, 33rd, and 44th Regt. of Native Infantry; the 31st Light Infantry, two rifle companies of the 24th, and a splendid force of European, Bengal, and Madras artillery. He so ably conducted the defence of the Tenasserim provinces, that the enemy (which was almost within sight), said to consist of at least 100,000 well-armed troops and 200 pieces of cannon, under the command of the King of Ava in person, that, in 1842, the King thought it prudent to retreat on Ontaka pooro, without making further demonstration of war; and, in 1853, after again assuming a menacing aspect, was glad to enter into a pacific treaty with the authorities of Tenaserim. In the midst of this distinguished career Colonel Logan fell into ill health, and returned to England, where he has fallen a victim to the effects of the Indian climate.

AUSTRALIA.—The Australian papers are almost all remarking and excited as the Canadian. Sir George Gipps's order of the 2nd of April, levying £10 passtunage license for every station, on the sheep-feeders, has raised an indescribable fermentation. Meetings and speeches, and resolutions crowd one upon the other, all declaring war upon Lord Stanley and his Governor. The more moderate rely on their influence in the Legislative Council to embarrass and upset the Governor, while the more violent propose nothing less than a refusal to pay the tax, and exhort the feeders to set the Government at defiance. The parties insist that they alone sustain the colony, furnishing the wool, the export, and that the policy of compelling them to purchase, settle, and till, instead of feeding, will prove as disastrous as it is arbitrary. The colonial authorities evidently regard the sheep-feeders with an unfavorable eye, as a class independent, and not vested permanently in the soil, and who contribute little to the expense of the colony, or the immigration fund. The parties deride the land system altogether, with its failure, its suspension, and its bankruptcies. They form the most powerful body in the colony, and are evidently too much exasperated to reason calmly, or abide by the final edict of the Governor, which has raised a ferment not easy to be allayed.—Morning Chronicle.

CAPE OF GOOD HOPE.—We extract from the Perth Courier of Thursday, the following description of Blair Castle, which is to be the royal residence during her Majesty's visit to Scotland:—"Blair Castle, the latest honoured royal residence in succession, is well known as one of the chief seats of the Atholl family in the Perthshire Highlands. It combines, within the adjoining grounds of Glenbruar and Glenfilt, the finest grouse-shooting and deer-stalking in Scotland, and on that account, doubtless, has been selected for the gratification of his Royal Highness. It enjoys other advantages, however, as a residence for her Majesty and the young princess, from the great salubrity of the climate and the great variety of pleasant drives, of which it is the centre. Excepting on the grouse hills of Glenbruar, her Majesty could accompany Prince Albert on his sporting excursions, there being an excellent carriage drive from Blair, five miles through the forest of Atholl, the length of the Hill Lodge. The walk in the policies of Blair, along the banks of the Tilt and the Fender have been long celebrated for their unequalled picturesque scenery and perfect seclusion. Blair Castle is very old massive, and its exterior is very plain and unpretending. It was originally three stories in height, with castellated turrets; but sustained so much injury by repeated sieges during the civil wars in 1715 and 1745, that the then Duke of Atholl reduced the building one story, and built a large unshapely wing containing apartments for the servants. The interior accommodation, however, is ample, and the principal rooms lofty and spacious. Lord Glenlyon has been for some weeks busily engaged making the necessary arrangements to render the whole suitable for the royal residence. A new approach has been made from the public road, entering on the west side of the Tilt, and passing through the avenue of splendid trees called 'Macgregor's Walk.' It has been computed there are thirty miles of walks and drives within the policies; and the whole have been put into complete order. We are informed that her Majesty and Prince Albert will honour the Marquis and Marchioness of Breadalbane with a visit at Taymouth castle, during the period of the royal residence at Blair."

TERMS OF PAYMENT.

Fifteen per cent. cash deposit on the fall of the hammer, the residue in bills at three, six, nine, and twelve months, in equal instalments, dated from day of sale, and bearing interest at six per cent. per annum. The deeds not to be delivered to the purchaser until the last bill is paid.

IN CASE THE PURCHASER PAYS CASH FOR THE WHOLE, EIGHT PER CENT. PER ANNUM DISCOUNT WILL BE ALLOWED ON THE BILLS.

 The auctioneer feels confident that the value of this property will, within a very short time, most considerably increase, owing to its being actually only within a stone's throw from the boundary stone of the city. Intending purchasers are invited to inspect the property, and examine the character of its highly valuable situation, and of the great improvements going on in the vicinity, being previously on the Sydney and Parramatta Road, and having direct communication with the NEWTOWN ROAD, where the number of buildings erected is rapidly increasing. Speculators are sure of receiving remunerating returns for their outlay by purchasing this property. Mr. L. has had a number of applications for small building allotments, but would prefer disposing of the whole in one lot, upon easy and equitable terms, which will therefore have a favourable opportunity of making a profitable investment. 8312
